BRITISH GARRISON DEPARTS FROM CANADIAN FORTRESS

With Martial Music the Lake Champlain Leaves Halifax Pier
With the Last of the British Troops.

Halifax, N.S., Mar. 6.—The passing of the Imperial garrison at Halifax was marked by the sailing of the C. P. R. steamship Lake Champlain from this port yesterday with the last of the English troops consisting of 1955 men and 150 officers.

Halifax has been garrisoned continually by British troops over one hundred years. The departing soldiers, under command of Major Cartwright, a Canadian born, were played on board by the band of the relieving Royal Canadian Regiment. At the pier were large numbers of officers and ladies and friends on board to bid them farewell, the whole forming a most animated picture. The steamer carried a full complement of saloon and second and third class passengers, and as she moved out from the dock there was witnessed a scene not often enacted at a Canadian port, the band, accompanying the troops rendering "Auld Lang Syne," and "The Maple Leaf Forever" amidst great cheering and waving of handkerchiefs.

CLYDE LINER RUNS ASHORE.
Wilmington, N.C., Mar. 5.—The Clyde line steamer Navahoe, Capt. Hale, from Wilmington to New York is ashore on the Middleground Shoals off Cape Fear bar. She cleared for New York Saturday with a miscellaneous cargo and was caught in a southwest storm that night. In attempting to put back for shelter it is understood that she was driven ashore. The revenue cutter Seminole and three tugs went to her assistance last night, but were unable to save her. She is badly listed and her position is dangerous in case of a strong southwest wind.

IS EDMONTON TO HAVE A THEATRE

It is the general consensus of opinion that if a Theatre be built, its location should be on a corner, in the heart of the City, on Street Car Line for convenience to all, near Fire Hall for protection, between the principal hotels and railway stations.

The Corner of McDougall and Sutherland streets would meet all requirements, here are two big lots 100x150 feet, on which are two dwelling houses and a printing office bringing in a fat rental to the owner, so that the man who buys now is assured of interest on his money from time of purchase.

The Alberta Agencies have this property for sale, and the prices and terms are right.

MANY FARMS APPLIED FOR

Homestead Entries Largely in Excess of Last Year.

Ottawa, March 6.—Homestead entries are rapidly increasing. During the month of February there were 2945 entries, as compared with 1154 for the same month last year or an increase of 870. The largest increases are at Edmonton, Regina and Battleford. At Battleford the entries were 285, compared with 76 in February, 1905; at Regina 490, compared with 231; and at Edmonton 308, compared with 156 in February 1905. There is a big increase at Yorkton and a decrease at Prince Albert.

MINERAL PRODUCTION BEATS THE RECORD

Ottawa, Mar. 6.—The summary of the mineral production in Canada for 1905 has been issued by the geological survey branch of the interior department. The value of the mineral products for the year is $48,574,707, or two millions higher than Canada's best previous year 1901, when it was over sixty millions. Last year's returns are all the more remarkable in view of the falling off of gold from the Yukon, over two million dollars. The coal largely predominates the production, making over seventeen million dollars, which when added to the value of the metallic products about 80 per cent of the production of the country is accounted for. The output of Yukon gold was $3,327,200 and all other gold, $6,159,633, making $14,486,833 in all.

Standard Oil May Operate Here.

(Winnipeg Free Press)
Frank S. Dunbar, a Standard Oil representative from Chicago, was in the city yesterday. He has just completed an extensive trip through Saskatchewan, Alberta, and Saskatchewan, and returned to Winnipeg exceedingly impressed by the great natural resources of these provinces. "I have been endeavoring to give some of my friends and acquaintances in Winnipeg some information regarding the west," he said to a Free Press reporter last night. "Given Winnipeg gets to be a big thing to appreciate the vastness and importance of these new provinces, and what they will mean to Canada in the near future. I do not wonder that many Americans are looking to the Dominion, and are picking out homes for themselves in the west."

Asked regarding the possibilities of the developments of the oil regions of Alberta, Mr. Dunbar had nothing to say. It is believed, however, that he was in the west under the orders of the great organization, with which he is identified, and which is desirous of securing accurate and reliable information regarding the oil prospects of the west. He left for Chicago last night.

Will Erect Mill This Summer

W. H. Clark, who returned from his western trip recently, stated to the Bulletin yesterday that the lack of snow in the woods would not interfere with the construction of the projected 60,000 foot mill, which he and some Minnesota men interested with him, propose putting up this summer.

A contract was given last fall for getting out one million feet of timber on the company's limits up the Saskatchewan during the winter. It is not at all likely that over one-half of that amount will be gotten out, but there is enough already cut and on the river to assure material for the construction of the mill. A portable sawmill outfit has been ordered and will be ready for operation near the Saskatchewan bridge whenever the river is open to bring timber down and the construction of the new mill will probably be started in May.

Real Estate Grows Active Again

Real estate is more active yesterday and today than has been the case for two or three weeks past and many small turn-overs, especially in east end property have been made within the past forty-eight hours.

The activity is traceable to a healthy demand for residence property as the building season will be well under way within the next ten days or two weeks. Railroad rumors of more or less substantial foundation are also responsible for a certain amount of stimulation, and in this connection, a map of the route of the G. T. P. from Portage La Prairie to Edmonton published in the Winnipeg Free Press, as taken from the official records of the company, is very interesting, as it shows the entry to the city via Clover Bar and the East end. Some of the suburban property has made sharp advances within the past few days, no doubt more or less on account of these rumors. Norwood addition lots were advanced 25 per cent this morning, and Delton lots are all higher.

Attorney-General Woods appeared for the department and Mr. Bown appeared for the applicant. Judgment was reserved.

Judge Scott leaves to-night for Waskia where he will hold supreme court, which will probably last two weeks.

The case of Robert Lockhart, charged with theft, is to come up on the 22nd when His Lordship returns from Waskia, and Ludwig Lilje will also appear for trial on his charge of burglary.

The new telephone book for February is out. There are 470 telephones on the city exchange, working on a switchboard of 450 capacity. The limit is already reached and another addition to the switchboard will have to be installed before more telephones can be added to the list.

The boys brigade of the First Presbyterian church will meet for drill to-night.

SLIGHTED OR OVERLOOKED?

No Invitation Extended to Edmonton to Attend Municipal Union Convention in Calgary To-day

Down in Calgary today there is a meeting ostensibly for the purpose of forming a union of Alberta municipalities. The call of the meeting, as far as can be learned, was by J. Emerson, mayor of Calgary, and invitations, it is understood, have been extended to every incorporated town and city in the province, except Edmonton.

There is no reasonable explanation apparent why Edmonton was left out. A letter was received by the city authorities here on January 5, from Mayor Emerson, stating that a meeting for the purpose was to be held and asking Edmonton to co-operate. The letter was brought to the attention of the council and answered in due course, to the effect that Edmonton would gladly participate in the formation of a municipal union, and would name delegates when dates were announced.

Since then, the Edmonton authorities have heard nothing from Calgary regarding the convention.

Paul M. Castor, late of Steele & Co., Winnipeg, will this week open a photograph gallery opposite the Empire Block on Jasper avenue. Mr. Castor was until recently manager of Steele & Co.'s branch in Calgary, and has had a wide experience. His parlors here will be furnished in an up-to-date manner.

THE PREMIER IN CALGARY

First Session Will Be Occupied With Organization Matters.

Calgary, March 6.—Premier Rutherford is here inspecting the Alberta normal school. In an interview he said that the work of the legislature would be confined for the most part to organization of the province. The telephone question would come up, but the Government proposed to deal with the subject very carefully and the House might appoint a committee to get information and report to the succeeding house.

The Premier says that despite predictions to the contrary, not a single application has yet been made for separate schools.

Yee Lee, Chinaman, was held up by two men with guns last night and robbed of seventy-two dollars.

Strait Settlements money is now refused in every part of the city. Many delegates are in the city to attend the inaugural convention of the union of Alberta municipalities.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mr. M. J. Dee, editor of the Detroit News arrived from Vancouver yesterday and will leave tomorrow for Detroit.

Mrs. McPherson gave a very pretty girls' tea yesterday afternoon in her Cozy parlors in the Chalmers Block. The hostess welcomed her guests, wearing a most becoming gown of old rose silk with lace, and was assisted by Madama Scoble and Hisslop. Mrs. Scoble wore a dainty gown of cream silk with lace insertion and hat to match, and Mrs. Hisslop a pretty gown of black Brussels net with picture hat.

The tea table looked most inviting with tea, cake and decorations of clusters of daffodils, which matched perfectly the tone and color of the room. Among those present were Misses Webster, Maloney, McLean, Weichert, Taylor, Johnson, Scott, Ferris, Willis, Kerr, McCauley, Norquay, Sommerville and Robertson.

The principle activity, so far this season, however, has been in residence property and yesterday the applica-

BUILDING CAMPAIGN COMMENCED YESTERDAY

Over $12,000 Worth of Permits Issued From Building Inspector's Office. Many Residences Contemplated.

The building campaign is on. With the balmy spring weather which struck the country yesterday and the rising thermometer the prospective builders are waking up, and yesterday afternoon there were permits issued to the extent of $12,550 from the building inspector's office in the city hall.

Building men and architects state that within two weeks the building activity will be general all over town and that there are literally hundreds of residences contemplated on which construction will be commenced in the immediate future. According to the present outlook, so the contractors say, there is going to be a scarcity of building mechanics in the city, especially of the high class kind, unless a good many come in with the spring rush.

So far there is no big building on.

W. H. Philpot has applied for a permit to build a couple of stores on First Street, on the west side between Peace and Athabasca. The plans call for a very handsome building, having a frontage of 45 feet and a depth of 60 feet with plate glass windows and a centre stairway leading to the second floor. Cunnell & Spencer are the builders. The estimated cost of the building is $2,500.

The Edmonton Tent and Mattress Factory are also applying for a permit to build a building after something the same pattern. The plans, in their case, call for one store or factory, 24 by 75 feet, with an enclosed entrance to the second story. The building will be on the east side of St. and street, between the Jasper and Athabasca streets. The cost is estimated at $3,000. Cunnell & Spencer are doing the building in this case also.

The principle activity, so far this season, however, has been in residence property and yesterday the applications for dwellings were large. Fred Marsden was granted a permit to build a residence on St. James Street, between Athabasca and Jasper, at a cost of $ 950.

E. Dodd is building a residence on the west side of Second street, between Vermillion and Nelson streets, at a cost of $1,600.

Chas. Wm. Brett has made application to build a residence on the east side of Fraser, between Isabella and Clark streets, at a cost of $1,400.

A. E. Oxy will build on the east side of First, between Saskatchewan and Calgary streets, at a cost of $800.

Ludwig Wolfson has made application to build a house on the west side of Fourth street at a cost of $400, and Heltz Fregon will put up a small store on the west side of Sixth street at a cost of $250.

GAS WELL BURNS FIERCELY

Caney, Kas., Mar. 6.—The gas well of the New York Oil and Gas Co., said to be the Standard Oil Corporation, is burning furiously, and its roar can be heard for miles. The well is four and a half miles southeast of Caney and has been blazing since February 23, when it was struck by lightning. The flames reach more than 150 feet in the air, and consume, it is estimated, 250,000,000 cubic feet of gas per day.

Shield our babies from all harm
That doth arise from careless men
Who leave untied his team and van.
Ere the time that soon will stay
Oh city fathers hear our prayer

Provincial University Question

To the Editor of the Bulletin:

In a recent issue of your paper there appeared a carefully written editorial on the question of establishing a university for the Province of Alberta. The occasion is a timely one for you to bring this matter before the public, as the meeting of the first Legislature of the new Province will take place in the near future, and the question of education is one of the most important matters with which we have to deal to-day. With many of your ideas regarding the function of a university I cannot agree; and I believe I am well within the mark in saying that the majority of our citizens who have given some thought to this matter will differ from you also. I felt like replying to your editorial the day after it appeared; but, being engaged in educational work myself, I thought that my own opinions on the question at issue might be somewhat biased, so I have waited a few days in the hope that some layman, who could speak ex cathedra, or one of your local contemporaries would take the matter up. However as no such article appears to be forthcoming, and as the solution of the question is fraught with great consequences to our present and future national life, I have ventured to make some observations on it in the following paragraphs.

With the opening part of your article which argues that the premature establishment of a university would be unwise, I am in accord. If by premature you mean the first or second session of the legislature. The work of the first and probably of the second session of our Provincial parliament will be largely one of organization and adoption; of setting the provincial machinery in motion, and until that is done we can hardly expect the Alberta Legislature to launch out into broad questions of public policy. But when it comes to shelving the question for some years—or indefinitely as you apparently suggest—that is a different matter. Before we can decide this question we must first answer the other one—What are the advantages of a university? and how will it affect our life as a province, and as a people. And this brings me to the second, and really important part of your editorial.

You say: "The purpose of a university is less the betterment of the many than the provision of means whereby the few may be enabled to qualify for the professions or to gratify the desire for more extended study, etc." If you will allow me to summarize your characterization—it is that the university is only for the few privileged ones—for developing the exceptional qualities of the minority; that it does not touch the great mass of the people; that consequently the energies and attention of the government should be directed to the development of our material resources and the improvement of our public school system—with regard to the latter suggestion—the expansion of our public school system no fault can be found; but in regard to your ideas on the purpose of a university I must say that personally I regret very much to see an influential paper like the Bulletin taking such a narrow, illiberal, short-sighted view of such an important question of public policy. If the writer of the editorial has the conviction of his statements he is not a very close student of modern conditions; for he is overlooking the basic principles that are the very foundation of our social and material progress. And what is worse, he is spreading this heresy among a large section of the population who depend on the newspapers for their opinions and prejudices on many subjects.

If the function of a university were only the betterment of the few then there could be no argument for state aid to higher education at all. But I believe that the converse of the proposition is true, and that the function of a university is the improvement of the many, morally, socially and materially. It may be only a common place, but it will stand repeating, to say that it is not mere material qualities—wealth, population large cities, etc.—that make a nation great. It is the mind alone that elevates a man, and the aggregate mind that elevates a people. Athens in the full blaze of her glory probably did not number 100,000 souls; yet in literature, in art, in philosophy, in science, in all that distinguishes the modern man from the gray barbarian, her influence has been greater than that of any other nation under the sun. Who will say, then, that the development of mind is not a power? But we do not need to go back to ancient history to find illustrations of this truth. After the humiliating defeat of Prussia at Jena by Napoleon I, her statesmen deliberated as to what was the best means of retrieving their lost fortunes, and expiating their disgrace. The conclusion arrived at was that to bring about the desired result the first steps should be taken to found a great university. Acting on this resolve Humboldt and Stein laid the foundations of the University of Berlin. The results were seen at Sedan in 1870. A later example to illustrate the same proposition would be the result: when recently the inert ignorance of Russia went down to overwhelming defeat before the disciplined intelligence of Japan.

But the point in particular that I want to demonstrate is that a university is not by any means for the benefit of the select few—even if its graduates and students form but a small percentage of the whole community. You say, develop the public schools and primary education—as if you could reach perfection in that line, or even substantial progress, without paying attention to higher education. The university, instead of being a useless ornament (I am here speaking of the arts courses) and being divorced from the rest of the educational system, is really the crown, the apex, the keystone of that system. The success, the excellence of your public schools will not depend on the addition of a few more subjects to the curriculum; there are too many subjects at present; nor on an increase in the school grant; but it will depend here, as in all other countries, on the quality of the teachers. You must have capable, cultivated, well-trained teachers, who will have a due respect for the importance of their work. Now these are trained in the high schools of the province, or most of them will be a few years hence. So it follows that your high school teachers must be capable, well-trained men, and these men must, in turn, be trained at the university. A supply of teachers can at present be had from the older provinces, so that my argument does not demand the immediate establishment of a university here; but it at least establishes this fact, that the university touches the very roots of our educational system, and efficiency in the lower is impossible without efficiency and power in the higher.

But it is a fact, however, that only a fraction of our graduates go into teaching; the others go into the ministry, or law, or medicine, business or politics, and how is a university training, an arts course going to effect them? Statistics will easily bear me out when I say it is from the arts course that you get your greatest lawyers, doctors, preachers and statesmen, and this is what we should expect. Such an education, conscientiously pursued, enlightens the mind, strengthens its faculties, and develops its powers. The positive knowledge acquired is large and has a broadening and liberalizing influence on those that receive it. But I do not mean best and greatest in the intellectual sense alone. All that is best and noblest in thought and character should be unfolded and developed by university training. The student has the great world of the past in books—at second hand. It is all right for some people to deride the importance of the humanities, and of Greek and Latin. But we must remember that Alexander the Great conquered the world because he had read Homer; and why do men like Gladstone keep up the reading of the classics all their lives? Are men not stimulated to live nobler lives by a study of the lives of the great ones of history and literature. And how shall we measure the importance of moral and social influence, the generous friendships, the high enthusiasm, and the lofty aspirations formed in the world of university life? For if students get the past and men at second hand from their books, they get the present and men at first hand from their companionships. Then the men educated for the professions or for business return to the communities again from which they came and take back with them the leaven of broad-mindedness and culture and in this way the whole mass is leavened. And yet you will say that the university only touches the few—that it is only a matter of concern to those who actually pursue their studies there.

There is one other point in regard to the social and moral influence of the university on the people at large, that I would like to emphasize here. We are apt to be laying too much stress on the development of the material resources alone, and in thinking that the basis of intelligence is material development. We have certainly large material resources to develop here. A vast country to turn to account, cities to fill with people, lands to settle, but a greater question than the utilization of all these lands is the kind of people that is going to occupy them. Look at the republic to the south of us, with their great material development and their vast populations. I have no desire to depreciate them, for I lived long enough in the United States to appreciate the greatness of the country and people. But if this century is going to be Canada's century, shall we be satisfied to move as they have done—with their mob law, an unwholesome record of crime and social sin, and corruption in business and political life? Or shall we develop a character and manhood like that of our Anglo-Saxon ancestors, or even better? Canada, and particularly the west, is on the eve of a period of great development; it is at the turning of the ways, as it were; the future and character of our people one hundred years hence will depend largely on the foundations that are laid today. Man shall not live by bread alone, nor shall peoples—or God have mercy on them if they do! If we are to make our country the Titan of the west, and are to look forward to a national life not wholly devoted to Mammon, to a race of strong, virile, manly men, and of pure, devoted mothers, education must supply the leaven, and particularly university education.

CONVICTED OF CRIMINAL LIBEL

The conviction of J. K. McInnis, proprietor of the Regina Standard, of criminal libel against Hon. Walter Scott is at once a comment and a condemnation on the course that journal has pursued in its hostility to the Provincial Government of Saskatchewan.

The trial judge held that the question at issue was the truth or falsity of Mr. McInnis' charge and upon that basis the defendant was found guilty. The matter was one in which Mr. McInnis had all the facts at first hand and the verdict amounts to a decision that he purposely and deliberately misrepresented those facts. The trial and its result should effectually establish in the public mind the measure of confidence to be placed in the past and future utterances of the Regina Standard.

The attitude which is quite properly allowed in the discussion of the policy or the administration of a government is not license to traduce either the private rights or the members of that government, nor the boundaries of truth. Both these limitations the Standard has persistently and deliberately violated during the past year. Differing with the Federal Government on provisions of the Autonomy Bill the Standard assiduously developed political difference into personal abuse. With the formation of the Scott Cabinet the accumulated fury of the Standard was transferred from Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr. Scott to Hon. Walter Scott and his colleagues and these gentlemen were daily depicted as the willing tools by which a grasping hierarchy sought to execute its dark designs on the liberties of Saskatchewan. The progress of time and the clash of arms served only to further infuriate the reckless organ and the unpardonable offence of the electorate in endorsing the Provincial Government was hailed as the triumph of reason and the slaughter of the innocent. Intoxicated by personal malice and the discomfiture of a falling cause, the proprietor of the Standard charged Premier Scott with attempting to bribe him to secure his support or to mitigate his opposition. That the Government should either fear or desire the support of the Standard or its proprietor was sufficiently absurd to discredit the charge in the public mind and the verdict of the court was generally anticipated.

While it might be unjust to hold the Saskatchewan Conservatives responsible for the untruthfulness of the criminal organ it is quite just to say that the character of the campaign which they have conducted was such as to engender extravagance of statement and in this manner to encourage the deliberate variation of the unprincipled supporters of their cause. The nature of that campaign was determined when at its outset the men responsible for its inception divested themselves of all vestige of party identity that in the irresponsible character of anonymous agitators they might with impunity work the works of political piracy. The campaign then began and continued until terminated by the election was a series of appeals to passion and prejudice rather than reason, was conducted by allegations in place of arguments and was bounded by no strict regard for the legitimate subjects of debate nor the proprieties of political controversy. In so far as the generally irresponsible nature of the campaign may have encouraged the malicious fabrications of the Standard and its kind to that extent Saskatchewan conservatives share in the condemnation meted out to this offender.

THE UNIVERSITY QUESTION

There is another aspect of the question with which I must deal briefly, the relation of university education to material and industrial development. Undoubtedly a time is coming when this province shall have important manufacturing industries. Coal and iron are the essential commodities for a manufacturing nation, and we have these in close proximity with each other. The other requisites of a manufacturing people are here too, and how shall we make the most of them? There is only one way and that is by the application of the most scientific methods to industry. In this age of keen competition, this fact is realized by the nations of the world as it never was before. It is here that the scientific side of the university training comes in, the work that is done in the physical and chemical laboratories. To illustrate my statement I must fall back on Germany again as the most conspicuous example. It is a well known fact that you can buy in Edmonton today many articles of German manufacture. At the present day the three great manufacturing nations of the world are Great Britain, Germany and the United States. On the industrial and commercial side Germany has outstripped the United States in the race for leadership, and this has been largely the work of the last generation. Look at the two countries. See the extent and the almost unlimited resources that the United States possessed at the outset; and set along side this the comparative poverty of Germany. Yet in the United States when there has been waste and almost reckless extravagance, in Germany there has been a careful husbanding of resources, an economical and systematic application of science to every department of industry, with the result that though handicapped by nature, suffering a constant drain in emigration, and the expense in men and money of having to maintain a large standing army, she has now taken the leadership as a commercial and industrial nation, and there has been nothing haphazard or accidental about this remarkable achievement. The German university has of late years been feeding the factories and the workshops, and putting disciplined, expert men into every department of trade. When the expert chemist can be persuaded to set up a laboratory in connection with a private business, the owner of that business soon outstrips the man who relies on native sagacity. In this way has Germany achieved such results. Commenting on the solution, the Outlook of New York, a rather conservative American journal concludes an article as follows:—"We have prided ourselves on our scientific sagacity, and there has been reason for our pride; but when we remember how much has been done for us in the way of natural capitalization of the continent, and how little has been done for Germany and compare what they have done with their limited resources, and what we have done with our unlimited resources, it ought to make us willing to take lessons from an educated and business people."

These facts have been recognized by the United States within the last ten years. As witness the large grants made by Congress and the State Legislatures to scientific education, and by England as well. To quote a few words from Mr. Chamberlain: "It is not too much to say that the existence of the country as a great commercial nation depends upon scientific training. If we are to maintain our position as a great industrial community, it must be by following out and adopting the same methods. The liberal conditions which England has made of the scientific departments of her universities in recent years, and the establishment of many institutions similar to the university of Birmingham, show that she fully realizes the important connection between scientific education, and commercial and industrial success."

It is useless to multiply instances. These facts have a deep truth for ourselves, deeper than we are conscious of, and the sooner our Government realizes that the better; we need men of generous sympathies and of broad minds to mould the character of their community and of their generation; but we likewise need captains of industry—chemists, metallurgists, mechanicians and engineers, to husband our resources and to make the most of them. In the light of these facts, which all the progressive nations in the world recognize today, who would he bold, or so unwise as to say that a university is for the few, and that it is not one of the most important factors in the life of a nation?

The expression: "The university for the few," and the luxury of a university, are misleading and misleadingly wrong. If a university for many years, then such an education would be a luxury. Look at the children of the rich who could afford to go east and take advantage of it. But it is not the rich who through universities and colleges, those intellects that have been the pride and glory of the race, in art, literature and science have as a rule come from the lower, or middle classes. In Ontario the sons of farmers have gone higher in education than the sons of any other class; and we may expect history to repeat itself in Alberta. But if you are not going to establish a university here for many years, you are then making higher education an exclusive thing; you are putting a tax on virtue and ability; you are shutting the doors of opportunity on the youth of our land; and they must stand by and see the highest places filled by outsiders. Is this not a penny wise and pound foolish policy? Is it a good and a justifiable policy to pursue in a democratic country?

Now in regard to the establishment of a university here; while it might not be advisable to take any decided action in the matter for a year or so, there are other reasons that occur to me why the establishment of a provincial university should not be delayed too long. You say, "Wait, and when a university is founded, let it be second to none." Now you cannot create a university as by a fiat. Like the British constitution, it is a growth, something that takes time. Its traditions and its associations count for something. Why not, then, make a beginning soon?

Again: The only university of the future is the non-sectarian, state-supported and state-owned institution. This fact is too obvious to need argument. But if this province does not take the matter in hand and deal with it early, then you will have a number of denominational colleges springing up in different parts of the province. We have two such institutions. When they get a proper foothold it will make the university question a more difficult one to solve in the end. Note the difficulty in Ontario. It has only recently been solved there, and rightly, as all the federated colleges have finally gathered around the one original state-owned, state-supported, and denominational institution, and the examination requirements have been brought up to its standards.

Further: If a land endowment is to be obtained from the Dominion Government for university purposes, there would be danger in delay, as our Crown lands are fast diminishing. But we have not been told (and I believe truly) that a liberal financial provision has been made for the new provinces, that we are entering confederation on an excellent basis? I believe that we have been fairly well provided for. Now, then, will be a greater call on our revenues proportionately for other things ten years hence than there is today even with the increased grant from the Dominion Treasury. So that from the financial standpoint, some money for this purpose could be better spared now than at a future time. And lastly, have we not had the assurance of the leader of the Government, according to utterances reported through the press, that the question of setting up a provincial university on a sound basis will be the subject of legislation in the near future?

These are some of the aspects of the question, Mr. Editor, which I should like to deal with, but it will take a three hours' speech, instead of an article like this, to deal with the question fully, and I fear I have already far transgressed the space limit that you can properly afford me. Regretting that you are not more in sympathy with the early establishment of a university, in Alberta, and thanking the Bulletin for past and present favors, I am

Yours truly,
WILLIAM RAE.

Owing to the present difficulty in obtaining houses in the city, and in view of what will probably be a greater difficulty in the near future, the above mentioned company has been formed for the purpose of erecting and operating an apartment house.

SITE—The site chosen is the one at the corner of Seventh street and Hard-isty avenue. No selection for this purpose could be more fortunate, for the Chambers, when completed will command as fine a view, as can be obtained overlooking, as it will, the most picturesque part of the town.

BUILDINGS—Plans are being prepared for a three-storey solid brick building, having such architectural beauty as is consistent with good business economy.

It is proposed to have three flats of apartments. The first flat to consist of suits of five and four rooms. The second of those of three rooms. The third will be taken up with single rooms, but with communicating doors between each pair. The building will be fitted with every modern convenience and will be systematically heated and lighted.

In connection therewith there will be a thoroughly metropolitan restaurant in the basement of the building
thus making tenants much more comfortable.

Subscription—The shares of the company are fifty dollars for each share payable as follows:

One quarter upon application.
One quarter upon allotment
One half upon call.

INVESTMENT—Investment in the company should appeal in several ways to the citizens of Edmonton.

First—To the man or woman who has the interest of the city at heart.
We are all looking for an enormous number of new citizens this year. We may however, be sure that however attractive in other respects they may find us, if we cannot house them decently, they will not regard very favorably taking up their residence in Edmonton. The Club Chambers will to a great extent relieve the present congestion and leave room for these incoming people. Then, again, we shall help in no small degree to advance an already popular city, by reason of its being the first place in the two new provinces whose progress demands a building of this sort. There is a great deal in one's first impressions of a new town, and if we force new people to "double up" and to put up with other inconveniences, we are going to lose some of them.

Second—Investment in the Company should appeal MORE to the people residing here now who have had to put up with uncomfortable quarters, and are desirous of looking forward to a continuance of the same state of affairs.
With the prospect of a comfortable, thoroughly up-to-date apartment, those who are anxious to see improvements of a city-like nature, as compared to those of a non-progressive VIL-AGE, surely cannot help but see that money expended for this purpose would be money well spent.

Third—Investment in the Company should appeal MOST to the careful money investor. Based on a conservative estimate, the company will return from twelve to fifteen per cent. to investors AND ALL SPECU-LATIVE FEATURES ELIMINATED.
It must be conceded that the business will pay, and pay handsomely. That cannot be gainsaid. The question is then, will it pay YOU. The per centage mentioned above are in excess of the average rate, even in this money-making country. It is true that more money has been, and is being made in real estate speculation. But you must remember that you are taking chances on losing every dollar. By investing your money in a company such as this,

you CANNOT, on our present hypotheses, lose your money, and it will return to you above the average rate of interest.

Another thing to be considered: If we are correct in saying that lack of proper accommodation will deter newcomers from remaining, then the same men who prefer a speculative investment to that in a sound business concern, will have fewer buyers than would be the case were we to expect and accord the new citizens the comfort and conveniences, which they look for in so widely-advertized a city as Edmonton.

The stock of this Company will be placed upon the market on Monday, 5th March. Application forms may be obtained at the office of

HOCKEY TONIGHT

The first game in the series for the Calgary Brewing and Malting Co. cup at present held by the Edmonton Thistles, and which has been challenged for by the Strathcona seniors, will be played this evening in the Thistle rink here. The series consists of three games, the winners of two of the games taking the cup. The games according to the rules governing the competition for the cup should all have been played on the home ice, but by arrangement one of the games will be played in Strathcona, on Thursday evening, providing of course there is ice.

LADIES WHO DRIVE

take nothing for granted—They want to know what sort of horses and vehicles they are to get for hire. Don't blame them. In fact we rather like to see their pretty faces hereabouts even if they express distrust. Why? Because we know full well that our conveyances and their traction power are more than up to the standard.
